

A wide-angle photograph of a grand, symmetrical classical building, likely a palace or government residence. The building features a central pedimented entrance, numerous tall windows with shutters, and a decorative balcony with statues on the roofline. It is situated on a grassy bank overlooking a calm body of water, which perfectly reflects the building's facade. In the background, rolling hills are visible under a clear sky.

A wide-angle photograph of a grand, symmetrical classical building, likely a palace or government residence. The building features a central pedimented entrance, numerous tall windows with shutters, and a decorative balcony with statues on the roofline. It is situated on a grassy bank overlooking a calm body of water, which perfectly reflects the building's facade. In the background, rolling hills are visible under a clear sky.

